

Reuse, Recycle and take to eco-chic leather accessories this winter

Toronto, ON –If you're looking for sustainable eco-friendly accessories this season – look no further. Agent Reclaim (www.agentreclaimed.etsy.com) takes pre-loved vintage leather and up-cycles it into a functional line of handcrafted handbags and accessories. Paying close attention to trends, Agent Reclaim prides its self on embracing the philosophy of “eco fashion”.

“My vision is to create a line focusing on green consumerism for those seeking an environmentally responsible and fashionable alternative to leather accessories,” says Shannon O'Hara, designer of the brand. “Agent Reclaim can even rescue your old leather jacket and transform it into a new one-of-a-kind handbag, allowing you to bring back that feeling you once had for that garment.”

This F/W season Agent Reclaim puts emphasis on python prints and metallic accents – creating a punch for typical reclaimed hues of the Holiday Season.

About Agent Reclaim: In 2008 Toronto based designer, Shannon O'Hara, began her one-of-a-kind handcrafted leather handbag and accessory line using repurposed material.

Shannon studied fashion design at the College De La Salle in Montreal, Carleton University in Ottawa for fine arts and at Richard Robertson for millinery design. Over the years Shannon has explored different quarters of the fashion industry. From designing her own jewellery and hat and scarf lines to writing for Taxi magazine as fashion and beauty editor and several years as a buyer for accessory boutiques.

Shannon brings an innovative and environmentally sound approach to fashion design and product creation that is practical, sophisticated and above all, distinctive. Agent Reclaim's collection is ever-changing depending on fashion trends. The concept of working with recycled leather will continue to be their unique selling point while their designs evolve depending on seasonal trends in cut and style.

Agent Reclaim is currently sold online at www.agentreclaimed.etsy.com.
